

Faith is a concept with as many textures and nuances as there are people who profess to have it. It is one of the most profound things known to man, and yet it is deeply personal and often times impossible to describe. Faith has compelled kings and queens to expand their territories and conquer nations. Faith has empowered individuals to stand courageously in the face of tyrants, torture, and death. Faith, though unseen, has supported entire nations in times of uncertainty and crisis. When we decided to publish Conversations On Faith, it was our desire to compile frank, honest, and intimate interviews with men and women who have all walked different paths, come from different cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds, and therefore have seen faith work in many different ways in their lives. We asked them to share their stories, their insights, and their inspiration, so others might be encouraged to grab hold of faith and see it work in their life! It is our hope that you keep this book with you until you've dog-eared every chapter and made so many notes in the margins that you have trouble seeing the original words on the pages. There is treasure here. Enjoy digging!
