

Much literature was written about personal happiness and fulfillment while most of the people still remain as they did for centuries or more, trapped in deception, regrets, unhappiness, unfulfilled, sadness, diseases. This happens because most of the people are simply distracted from their natural life development by bad education, customs, habits, dogmas, that perpetuated themselves over time by inertia and who knows, maybe from another reason too, with the sole intention for, say, individual building a better society for the benefits of all. This idea of self sacrifice for the benefits of all (the herd) explain why our society, remain for so much time turbulent, warlike, competitive, unsettled and will remain so as much time it will be made in its majority by the needy. If you don't like to benefit from this prospective outcome in the form of repetitive pattern, start asking what to do with your own life from this very moment and in case you do, consider the following: Real work for you that will count for constructing a meaningful and happy life, starts from the moment you know where you are heading on, why, according to what values, applying the right principles that will finally guide you for the rest of your existence. As between you and your heading target is an intimate relation you should develop from this very moment, I invite you to read this concise eBook for a better understanding of how actually to apply this concept: Raise yourself to help others (accounting as society) revealing thus a way of making a better world while minding in fact your own business. The way of doing each day what you should, in a certain way, applying small corrective steps to your actions meant to bring you closer to your own real life path, in a certain way, will make you enjoy your life while you help others enjoy theirs. This is my short eBook all about so I invite you to read it and let me a review.
